

TIKKURILA Coatings

Why the big news from us is good news
for you and the big news is...

As a valued customer, you can look forward to a revitalised, improved level of service that is more closely matched to your specialist needs.

We've streamlined our business to focus solely on your specific business needs.

A new name and a new approach

This change coincides with our outright purchase of all UK operations from the Tikkurila Group in Finland. We are now entirely British owned and managed, with a brand new identity: Protega Coatings.

Protega Coatings. Innovation. Performance. Value.

The people and products you know and trust will still be available, but now with even greater support and attention to detail. As a Protega customer, you benefit not only from the finest, bespoke solutions in specialist industrial and protective coatings, but also from a more responsive service – delivering innovation, performance and value.

This improved focus becomes possible through the simultaneous launch of Prospeed Coatings, the new division responsible for our standard product range and distributor network, which specialises in the rapid delivery of colour and technology to a wide range of industrial customers.

Dedicated to your individual needs

At Protega Coatings, we're committed to an ongoing programme of research and refinement, so we'll always be best equipped to provide the optimum solution to meet your particular requirements. For more information, please call us or visit our website.
